Who are the Frederick County Master Gardeners?

Frederick County Master Gardeners are volunteer representatives of the University of Maryland Extension. Our mission is to educate residents about effective and sustainable horticultural practices that build healthy gardens, landscapes and communities. We base our knowledge on our own experience as gardeners as well as classroom and hands-on training provided by the University of Maryland Extension and University of Maryland Horticultural Educators.

Frederick County Master Gardeners:

- Offer plant clinics
- Host information booths
- Maintain display gardens
- Offer horticultural therapy at area nursing homes
- Write a gardening column for the Frederick News-Post
- Offer a Junior Master Gardener program
- Maintain a Speaker's Bureau on a wide variety of topics for both school and civic organizations
