UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND
EXTENSION
Solutions in your community

The information in the following directory lists resources for both public and private sector. No endorsement is implied or exclusion intended and no guarantee of reliability is implied. This is by no means a complete listing of all organizations and associations servicing the specialty foods industry in Maryland. Word of mouth, the Yellow Pages, and the Internet offer many additional contacts.

The University of Maryland Extension programs are open to any person and will not discriminate against anyone because of race, age, sex, color, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, religion, ancestry, national origin, marital status, genetic information, political affiliation, and gender identity or expression.

DATABASES AND LISTSERVS

Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) Market News

Agricultural Marketing Service provides current, unbiased price and sales information to assist in the orderly marketing and distribution of farm commodities. Reports include information on prices, volume, quality, condition, and other market data on farm products in specific markets and marketing areas. Reports cover both domestic and international markets. The data is disseminated within hours of collection via the Internet and made available through electronic means, in printed reports, by telephone recordings and through the news media.

developed by industry-government partnerships, with support from US EPA's Office of Compliance and Enforcement. The FPEAC staff has delivered over 70 workshops to national and international audiences on food processing, food safety, food regulations, and food plant sanitation programs in the past ten years. These programs have been joint efforts between multiple partners including state and federal regulatory agencies (USDA and FDA). A portion of these workshops have included information on waste management such as discharge limits (BOD, COD, pH, FOG, suspended solids, etc.), TMDL's, reporting requirements, Clean Air Act, and best available control technologies. Along with workshop materials, the assembled team has developed over 30 educational fact sheets and handouts on food processing, food safety, food plant sanitation, and food regulations.
